Quilting-on-the-Go

By Carolyn Forster

In Quilting-on-the-Go, Carolyn Forster explains how to break large quilt designs down into small, manageable sections that are easily quilted by hand or machine. Using her clear instructions, quilters can piece a block on one outing, quilt it the next, and by the time the blocks are ready to be joined, most of the quilting is already done!

The Basics section provides all the information necessary to prepare manageable pieces of quilting that can be taken anywhere with no special equipment needed.

The Project section contains 15 lovely quilts created using Quilt-on-the-Go blocks. Each framed block is pieced and quilted individually using the full-size templates provided. Quilting-on-the-Go includes rotary cutting instructions and step-by-step diagrams and photos. As an extra bonus, the sashing/frame designs suggested for the projects create attractive secondary patterns across the quilt once the blocks are joined.

Quilting-on-the-Go is quick, easy and effective.

Carolyn Forster started quilting when she was at school, and it has since then become an integral part of her life. Over the years, her work has been featured in various British magazines, including Popular Patchwork, Fabrications and Patchwork & Quilting Magazine. Her quilts have appeared on the television, both in the UK and in the US. She has contributed to books published by New Holland, That Patchwork Place and David & Charles. As a teacher, she was inspired to write a book about making quilts and quilting them in small sections to help her students overcome the need to quilt a project in one large—and often unwieldy—piece, thereby allowing their quilts to grow gradually and easily. Carolyn lives in Tunbridge Wells, Kent, UK, with her husband and son.

Quilting-on-the-Go, by Carolyn Forster, contains 120 pages. It retails for $24.95 with a tradepaper binding with French flaps. It is available through your favorite bookseller, quilt shop, or direct from Landauer Publishing at 800-557-2144 or on the web at www.landauercorp.com.
